<tr><th colspan="3">THE SHOP GAME</th></tr>
<tr><td colspan="2">you need: flashcards or cut-outs of different objects you can buy in the shop</td><td>general comments:
This game practises natural dialogues and words in context. Students must say a sentence to get something, which is very motivating!</td></tr>
<tr><td colspan="3">how to play:
1. Explain (L1) to students that you are going to play shop. Practice the dialogues. Teach students to stand in a line.
2. Place a chair or a small table in front of you - this will be the counter.
3. Students queue and buy things in the shop one after another (using the dialogues below).
4. A student can replace the teacher and be the shop assistant.
5. If the group is numerous students may be divided into two groups and play two shops, with two different shop-assistants. Teacher’s role is to monitor and support the shop assistants.</td></tr>
<tr><td>the dialogues:</td><td>BEGINNERS:
A crayon, please.
Here you are.</td><td>OLDER STUDENTS:
Hello, how are you?
I’m fine thank you.
Can I help you?
Yes, can I have a crayon, please?
Here you are.
Thank you.
You’re welcome.
Bye-bye.</td></tr>
